
Moving in at UCC

George Roth, director of data processing at Umpqua Community College, is busy this week moving his operation into UCC's new Educational Skills Building. Besides the data processing department, the $1.1 million structure will house UCC's learning skills center and instructional materials center. The building will be open officially beginning with the winter term Monday. The 13,000-square-foot structure is heated partially by solar heat. It has 2,100 square feet of roof-mounted solar panels.
